HISTORICAL SUMMARY OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Lat. N. 42° 41′ and 45° 11′, and Long. W. 70° 40′ and 72° 28′ } Area 9,280 sq. m. { Length, N. and S., 168 miles, and Width, E. & W., 20 to 90 miles.

In 1622, Mason and Gorges jointly had a grant of the land from Merrimack river to the Kennebec river, and in 1623, the first settlements were commenced at Portsmouth and at Dover. In 1629 the grant was divided, and a separate grant was made to Mason of that part west of the Piscataqua river, called New-Hampshire, and to Gorges of the part east of the Piscataqua, called Maine. In 1641 Massachusetts extended her jurisdiction over New-Hampshire and maintained her authority there till 1679, when the case being brought before the highest Court of Appeal in England on Provincial matters, it was decided that the claim of Massachusetts was illegal, and New-Hampshire was constituted a separate province. In 1686, the charter of Massachusetts having been annulled, New-Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts and Narragansett were united in one Royal Province, under President Dudley, and afterward under Governor Andros. In 1689, upon news of the revolution in England, the Government of Andros was overturned, and Massachusetts assumed her old charter. Some of the people of New-Hampshire petitioned Massachusetts to be received under her government and protection till orders should come from England, to which Massachusetts assented, and exercised a merely nominal authority there. In 1692, the province of New-Hampshire was re-established, and ever after remained a separate province. In some cases the same person was Governor of New-Hampshire and Massachusetts, but the governments were not connected. The legislatures, laws, courts and officers, civil and military, were entirely distinct. The line between the provinces remained in dispute till 1741, when it was finally settled, as it now remains.

NOTE. The Lt. Governors, after 1741, are not known to have acted as chief magistrates, the Governors being residents of the province. Before that, when the Governor was resident in Massachusetts, the Lt. Governors claimed to be chief magistrates, and often acted as such when the Governor was out of the province.

In May, 1775, the Royal Governor withdrew, and the province was governed by a convention, of which Matthew Thornton was President; and in January, 1776, a temporary Constitution was adopted, under which Meshech Weare was unanimously elected President of the Council, and Chairman of the Committee of Safety, till June, 1784.

General Court. Members of both houses are chosen annually. Senators, 12 in number, must be 30 years old, inhabitants of their districts, and have been inhabitants of the State for seven years. Senatorial districts are set off according to the portion of direct taxes paid by the said districts. In case of non-election in any senatorial district, the General Court chooses one of the two persons having the highest number of votes. Representatives must be inhabitants of their district, and have been, for two years next preceding election, inhabitants of the State. Every town, &c., having 150 ratable male polls 21 years old, may choose one representative; and every 300 such polls additional shall entitle the town to another representative.

The Judiciary consists of Supreme Court, Courts Probate, and Justices Peace. All judges are nominated and appointed by the Governor and Council. Term of office expires at age of 70. Justices of Peace are appointed for five years, and have jurisdiction in cases below $13.33. Clerks of courts are appointed by courts.

*Resigned Feb., 1831; Joseph M. Harper acting Gov. balance of year.

The Governor is chosen annually, by a majority of votes; or, in case of no choice by the people, the General Court, in joint ballot, elects one of the two persons having the highest number of votes. The qualifications for Governor are the same as for Senators. In case of the death or disability of the Governor, the office is filled by the President of the Senate. The Council consists of five Councillors, elected annually, for advising the Governor in the executive part of government. The qualifications for Councilors are the same as for Senators, and vacancies are filled as in the Senate. The Governor convenes the Council, and their resolutions and advice are recorded in a register, and signed by those agreeing thereto. The Governor and Council nominate and appoint all judicial officers, the attorney-general, and solicitors, sheriffs, coroners, registers of probate, and general field officers of militia. The Governor and Council have a negative on each other, both in the nominations and appointments. The administrative officers of the State are: Secretary, Treasurer, and Commissary-General, who are chosen by joint ballot of the General Court. County treasurers, registers of deeds and commissioners, are elected by the voters in the several counties.

Rights and Qualifications of Voters in New-Hampshire.

The General Statutes, chap. 27, provide, that (SEC. 1) Every male inhabitant of a town, in which he dwells and has his home, being a native or naturalized citizen of the United States, twenty-one years of age and upward (excepting paupers and persons excused from paying taxes at their own request), shall have a right to vote at any meeting.

SEC. 6. No person a rightful voter unless he shall have resided within such town six months prior to day of meeting.

SEC. 7. A residence acquired in any town shall not be lost by a temporary absence therefrom with intention of returning thereto as home.

GUBERNATORIAL VOTE OF N. H. to 1870.

Meshech Weare was probably unanimously elected, as no vote is recorded. The chief magistrates were called "President" from 1784 to 1793. Then the term "Governor" was substituted.

1785.

Party distinction did not probably exist at this time. Subsequently, the terms Federalist and Republican, designated party divisions, and the leading candidates voted for are classed by their after party affiliations.

About this time, the Federal party having ceased to exist, the contending political interests rallied about individual men, and though not differing materially in principle, espoused the cause of Jackson, or Adams, contestants for the Presidential chair. They were recognized as Jackson men, or Democratic Republicans, and Adams men, or National Republicans; and these contests became more intensely bitter than any known in American politics.

In the campaign of 1870, a political Temperance party was organized, presenting nearly, if not quite, a complete list of nominations for State and County officers. It drew its vote chiefly from the Republican organization. Also, another party appeared, termed "Labor Reform," mainly under the leadership of Democrats and disaffected Republicans. It "expected" to defeat the dominant party, and gain adherents enough from the two old parties to give their candidates a constitutional presentment before the Legislature. Its vote, however, amounted to little more than a division of the Democratic strength, as will be seen by observing the votes for Governor, Councilors and Senators.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Historical Facts connected with the formation of the original Union, and the admission of new States.

On Monday, September 5, 1774, a number of men were assembled at Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, who had been chosen by the several Colonies, in what now constitutes the United States, to hold a Congress for the purpose of discussing certain grievances imputed to the mother country. This Congress resolved that each colony should have one vote only. On Tuesday, July 2, 1776, the Congress resolved "That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States," etc.; and on Thursday, July 4, the whole Declaration of Independence having been agreed upon, was publicly read to the people. On September 9 it was resolved that the words "United Colonies" should no longer be used, and that "United States" should thenceforward be the style and title of the Union. On Saturday, November 15, 1777, "Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union of the United States of America" were agreed to by the State Delegates, subject to the ratification of the several State Legislatures. Eight of the States ratified these articles July 9, 1778; one July 21; one July 24; one November 26; one February 22, 1779; and the last one March 1, 1781.

The seat of government was established, first at Philadelphia, Penn., commencing September 5, 1774; and May 10, 1775; at Baltimore, Md., Dec. 20, 1776; at Philadelphia, Penn., March 4, 1777; at Lancaster, Penn., September 27, 1777; at York, Penn., September 30, 1777; at Philadelphia, Penn., July 2, 1778; at Princeton, N. J., June 30, 1783; at Annapolis, Md., November 26, 1783; at Trenton, N. J., November 1, 1784; and at New-York City, January 11, 1785.

On the 4th of March, 1789, the present Constitution, which had been adopted by a convention and ratified by the requisite number of States, went into operation. The several State Legislatures ratified this instrument at the following dates:

Delaware, December 7, 1787; Pennsylvania, December 12, 1787; New-Jersey, December 13, 1787; Georgia, January 2, 1788; Connecticut, January 9, 1788; Massachusetts, February 6, 1788; Maryland, April 28, 1788; South-Carolina, May 23, 1788; New-Hampshire, June 21, 1788; Virginia, June 26, 1788; New-York, July 26, 1788; North-Carolina, November 21, 1789; Rhode-Island, May 29, 1790.

The privilege of becoming members of the Union by ratifying the Constitution was confined to those States that were parties to the confederation by which the Constitution had been framed. The Constitution was adopted by the Convention, September 17, 1787. It required that nine States should ratify it before its provisions could go into effect. Congress, on the 13th of September, 1788, determined that as a sufficient number of States had ratified it—eleven having done so—it should become operative on the first Wednesday (the 4th) of March, 1789. North-Carolina and Rhode-Island had not yet sanctioned it; but as soon as they acceded to its provisions, they were admitted to its privileges.

Twenty-four States have been admitted into the Union since the confederation of the original thirteen colonies:

1. Vermont, March 4, 1791.
2. Kentucky, June 1, 1792.
3. Tennessee, June 1, 1796.
4. Ohio, November 29, 1802.

CENSUSES OF THE UNITED STATES.

The census is taken in the United States in obedience to the Constitution, which commands that an actual enumeration or census shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as Congress shall by law direct. Under our system of government, the census is of more importance in the United States than in most other countries, because representation in Congress and direct taxes are apportioned according to numbers in the States.

To Professional and Business Men.

We ask the assistance of all persons, who may be cognizant of errors or omissions in the Manual, or of the changes that are constantly taking place by death, or removal from town or state, of clergymen, physicians, lawyers, justices, merchants, manufacturers, &c., in correcting and perfecting this work. Such information will be carefully noted, and corrected in the next edition.

It should be a matter of interest to officers and business men in every town to keep us posted in all the changes that take place; also, to give us the names of all the Professional and Business men and firms in their village and town, so that each edition of the Manual may be a fresh and reliable Business Directory of the State. All assistance will be gratefully received.
